Telli Nourkeyhani
Senior Designer

Telli is a graphic designer experienced in cross-disciplinary approaches applied to environmental design. Her work encompasses architectural graphics, branded environments, signage and wayfinding systems. She has been collaborating with Nick Bell Design since 2014 as a Senior Designer on multiple projects.

She received her MA in Graphic Design from the London College of Communication at the University of the Arts London where she graduated with a distinction. This followed five years of professional practice in her hometown of Tehran in Iran.

Over the years, Telli has worked on major international projects for leading design practices such as Speirs + Major, Spaceagency, Moving Brands, Foster + Partners and OMA. Her history of collaboration with architects, urban, interior and lighting designers has provided her with an all-round understanding of the built environment and is evidence of her expertise in the integration of two-dimensional communication design with architectural space.

Notable projects include London 2012 Olympics Lighting Strategy, wayfinding for Astana Expo 2017 in Kazakhstan, wayfinding and information graphics for Orbital Highway in Qatar, signage for Eastland Shopping Centre in Australia, and interior graphics (with Nick Bell Design), for the global headquarters of a leading FTSE-listed company in London.
